orts HUNTNEWSNU.COM PAGE 16

News Photo/Zack Williamson Sophomore setter Jillian Briner had 19 assists, 14 kills and four digs against Hoftsra on Saturday.

Assists from setters lifts Huskies over Hofstra

By Madeline Sattler NEWS STAFF

A setter in volleyball passes to set up a scoring play similar to the way a quarterback throws a pass to a wide receiver in the end zone for a touchdown.

This season, setters sophomore Jillian Briner and junior Ina Kamenova have taken on this offensive responsibility for the Huskies, racking up a combined 626 assists in 15 games.

"The setter really is the quarterback and everybody understands that they are the ones dictating the tempo and trying to execute game plan," head coach Ken Nichols said.

Nichols also explained that most teams run a five-one offense and only have one setter on the court at a time. Northeastern employs a different game plan that plays two setters at a time, each one contributing in different ways.

"Jill [Briner] as an attacker is phenomenal," Nichols said. "Jill does a hur-3 Northeastern ofry-up 1 fense kind Hofstra thing of like football where the pressure is there all the time."

Briner's offensive abilities were evident in Saturday night's 3-1 win against the Hofstra University Pride (25-14, 20-25, 25-15, 25-20).

She opened up the first set with a huge kill. She had 14 kills on 20 swings and added two service aces to her offensive totals. She also distributed 19 assists.

"I think I need to work on my blocking a little bit, but I think I did okay today," Briner said. "I want to get my hitters better balls. so I get more assists and so they get more kills.'

Kamenova, on the other hand, makes the in-game adjustments that are so important to the Huskies' game plan, Nichols said.

"Ina [Kamenova] has the ability to not only execute game plan, but make adjustments and she's very good at it," he said. "She gets the opportunity to settle things down, take a long snap and think things through.³

Kamenova led the team in assists on Saturday with 25. She also squeezed in a service ace in the second set.

In the opening of Colonial Athletic Association (CAA) conference play, Hofstra proved to be a test for Northeastern, as the

VOLLEYBALL, PAGE 14

MEN'S SOCCER NU wins 10th straight at home

By Eoghan Kelly NEWS STAFF

The men's soccer team has proven in this young season to be one of the most resilient teams in the country when it's on the road. At home, the Huskies continue to appear invincible.

Northeastern (5-1-1) overcame its worst start to a game so far in 2012 when

| Northeastern | 5 | senior | |
|--------------|---|--------|-------|
| Holy Cross | 2 | ward | |
| | | And | 1 n a |

Anding scored three goals as the Huskies blew out the College of the Holy Cross, 5-2, Tuesday night to remain undefeated on their home turf (3-0-0) in 2012.

We started out pretty slow," Anding said. "We came out flat and then we almost paid for it. We did pay for it. Luckily we were able to come back and take care of business.

After a difficult 1-1-1 road trip that produced two double-overtime games and kept the Huskies away from Parsons Field for more than three weeks, Northeastern extended its home winning streak to 10 games and avoided its first loss at Parsons since a 2-1 overtime defeat at the hands of the College of William & Mary on Nov. 6, 2010.

"We always expect to win here," Anding said. "It's very hard for teams to come here and play and try to get a result. ... We just know we're gonna take care of business and we do it.'

The Huskies got off to a sluggish start and struggled to possess the ball for the first 10 minutes of the game. As a result, they conceded the lead to the Crusaders (2-6-0) after only eight minutes of play when a pretty combination play led to a tap-in goal for junior midfielder Tommy Uttaro.

But the early wake-up call brought the Huskies to life as the red and black responded with three goals in a span of 18 minutes to take a two-goal advantage.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 2012

Anding and senior midfielder Andre Ciliotta combined to level the score in the 15th minute when Ciliotta controlled a Holy Cross turnover in the attacking third and slotted the ball to Anding, who was left to run into the 18-yard box and tuck a shot past freshman goalie Kevin Wright.

From then on, everything went Northeastern's way.

Sophomore forward Donovan Fayd'Herbe de Maudave scored a highlight-reel goal less than 90 seconds later when he ripped a left-footed volley from the edge of the penalty area inside the left post to make it 2-1 and put the Huskies on top for good.

Senior goalkeeper Oliver Blum, who was forced to make only one save and replaced by redshirtsophomore Jacob Aduama in the 76th minute, said that Northeastern's response to the Holy Cross goal was a reflection of the team's flexibility.

"We're a very resilient team, as you've seen all season," Blum said. "We score late goals. We have a lot of self-belief. We have that never-say-die attitude, which is good. I think that when we do go down a goal, we don't bury ourselves. I think we pick ourselves up well."

Anding added goals in the 33rd and 63rd minutes to give the Huskies insurance. He now has seven points (five goals, two assists) in as many games in 2012.

Freshman forward Terence Carter made it a four-goal differential with 18 minutes left when he put it through Wright's legs from just outside the six-yard box, marking his second goal in three games. Northeastern scored five goals for the first time since a 5-0 MEN'S SOCCER, PAGE 14

FIELD HOCKEY Northeastern splits weekend, falls to CAA foe ODU

By Andy MacDougall NEWS CORRESPONDENT

Before the 2012 Northeastern field hockey team first set foot score at all in the second half. We had twice as many corners as just within the near post for what played, and that we didn't give front of the Husky net. Priest and up," Poland said. "They didn't the Northeastern defense had no time to react, and the ball flew they did. But it still kind of hurts would prove to be the game-win-on the pitch, before the team was even back on campus, senior forward Crystal Poland knew what she wanted this season.

She wants a conference title and a season capped with a national title, but every college athlete wants that. Poland wanted something a little more simple, and in some ways, a little more personal.

She wanted a win over Old Dominion University - a win that had eluded her and her teammates over the past three years, and well beyond that.

But Sunday, after a motivating, come-from-behind 3-2 victory over the College of William & Mary on Friday night, Northeastern once again found themselves on the wrong end of a barnburner at Boston College's Field Hockey Field, as the then-No. 9 Lady Monarchs escaped with a 2-1 victory over the then-No. 8 and home-team Huskies.

"Obviously we're all a little disappointed that we did lose, but we're also still proud of how we

a little.'

For an opponent that is perennially renowned for its offensive abilities, Northeastern was the up short. Both squads took nine shots on the afternoon, but Northeastern had twice as many penalty corners (8-4) and drew Old Dominion into nine more fouls.

Old Dominion's first goal came on a cross-crease feed from senior forward Maartje van Rijswijk to senior forward Kimberly Oakes. Like any goalie, senior Lizzie Priest hugged the near post, so when the Lady Monarchs connected on the pass within feet of Northeastern's far post, Priest came up empty on the save.

The second Lady Monarch goal came just before the half. Freshman midfielder Sarah Breen took the shot off a penalty corner, and freshman midfielder Celine Marquet deflected the shot just in ning goal.

Between the two ODU goals, senior forward Nicky Graham netted her first of the season. Junior forward Lindsay Bennett took a penalty corner at 19:58, and passed the ball to Graham. Graham gave it to Poland, who drew the defense before passing it back to Graham on the near post. Graham wristed it just inside the post to then tie the game at one.

The second half was a defensive juggernaut, as the Huskies worked hard to press up field for the equalizer. With only a few minutes remaining, the Monarchs took a shot on Priest near-post.

Priest made a quick save, but the rebound went precariously close to Northeastern's far post. Senior midfielder Emily Norell was there, standing in front of the net to add an extra layer of defense for the Huskies, and flicked the ball out of harms way.

"Our defense constantly steps up, and each defender will come Field hockey, page 15

News Photo/Zack Williamson Senior forward Crystal Poland is second in goals per game in the nation.

Thursday, September 27, 2012

FIELD HOCKEY Coach Murtagh selected for hall of fame

By Andy MacDougall News Correspondent

Very few people who pick up a sport do so for selfish reasons. It's usually for the love of the game, or because they want to be a part of a team, or because as a child, their parents signed them up for it.

Not many people get involved with sports because they strive to leave a lasting legacy. With hard work and dedication, it's sometimes just an unexpected, blessed result.

Which is why Northeastern field hockey head coach Cheryl Murtagh feels so humbled. Last Wednesday, after nearly 30 years in the coaching ranks, Murtagh was elected to the Zag Field Hockey/National Field Hockey Coaches Association (NFHCA) Hall of Fame Class of 2012.

"I was in England with [associated head coach Kate Pfeifer], and we were recruiting when [NFHCA President Becca Main] called me and told me," Murtagh said. "It's truly an honor. ... It's nice when your peers [recognize you]. I think that's why it's an honor for me, but we're in the season and I'm focused on that."

The recognition comes amid one of Murtagh's best seasons at the helm for Northeastern. Her Huskies are ranked No. 9 in the country by the NFHCA Poll at 7-2, they're 5-2 against ranked opponents (including a win over then-No. 6 Virginia on Sept. 8) and her senior-laden club has the aspiration and desire that will be needed for a deep postseason run.

And the young women she coaches know this recognition is certainly a long time coming. "I think it's awesome," senior

"I think it's awesome," senior forward Crystal Poland said. "She's such a great coach. I think it's great that she's being recognized at the national level, not just here at Northeastern. ... But she doesn't like the limelight, and doesn't want to take away from what our team is trying to do, which is a really admirable thing."

Before her coaching days on Huntington Avenue, the Rowley native was a standout field hockey player at Bishop Fenwick High

Head coach Cheryl Murtagh has coached the Huskies since 1988.

School in Peabody before a stellar career with the University of New Hampshire, where she was a two-time All-American in 1979 and 1980.

After graduating from UNH in 1981, Murtagh took over the head coaching position at Division II Bentley University from 1982 to 1984. Following her two seasons with the Falcons, Murtagh accepted an assistant coaching position with Northeastern under her predecessor, Joan Broderick.

Murtagh took over the program when Broderick left before the 1988 season, and hasn't looked back since. The second-longest tenured coach at Northeastern (behind baseball coach Neil McPhee), Murtagh has compiled a 340-184-10 record with the Huskies (357-199-13 career).

Her 357 wins puts her eighth all-time among Division I coaches, and along the way, she's coached the Huskies to three NCAA Final Fours and fifteen tournament appearances. On the conference level, Murtagh coached the Huskies to 10 America East titles in her first 15 seasons. Northeastern has won at least one playoff game in 20 of her 24 postseason berths, but has yet to win a Colonial Athletic Association (CAA) championship since joining the conference in 2005.

Conference foe Old Dominion University has 15 CAA titles to their name, but because they are leaving the conference after this season, is post-season ineligible. Last season, NU lost to ODU, 1-5, in the CAA Championship game.

Page 15

"I've been [at Northeastern] so long because I've been treated so well, as a coach and as a person," Murtagh said. "I'm just so grateful for Northeastern giving me the opportunity ... to coach at a university where I feel supported and I feel we can win and also be close to my family. It's just something I truly treasure, because not every coach can do that."

Along with Murtagh, the class of 2012 will include the late Catherine Brown, former umpire and head coach at Ohio University and Linda Dirga, former coach at Pomperaug High School in Connecticut.

"It's such a huge recognition, and she's like, 'Oh, yes, thank you, but our team is doing really well,'" Poland said.

A scheduling change has prompted this year's induction class to coincide with the 2013 Annual Convention and the Class of 2013, which will occur next November.

Graham nets first goal in Huskies second loss up with a sick play that gets the ball out," Poland said. "I thought [ODU's] forwards were really good. They put a lot of pressure on us, and for our defense to come out like that, it's a positive step for us."

Field Hockey, from page 16

The Huskies earned a penalty corner with less than a minute remaining in regulation and attempted the same play that earned them their first goal: Bennett to Poland to Graham. Graham drew the defense to the near post, and took the shot across her body, but the ball rolled just wide of the far post and Old Dominion killed the remainder of the clock for the win.

The loss came off a gutsy win over conference foe William & Mary at Harvard on Friday. After trailing 1-0 at halftime, the Huskies exploded for three goals in the second. Sophomore midfielder Caroline Judge tied the game at one just 2:36 into the second. Midway through the second, Poland gave the Huskies the lead for good with a goal off a penalty corner with 15 minutes remaining, and sophomore Kate Carlson, a back for the Huskies, netted the first goal of her college career for the gamewinner with 10 minutes remaining.

ing. The Huskies, now No. 9 in the country, know it's important to be 1-1 in conference play, but with Old Dominion leaving the Colonial Athletic Association at season's end, the Huskies were hoping to take care of business against a team that they had been 2-22-1 against all-time.

"I feel like we're not destroyed by [the Old Dominion loss]," said Murtagh. "There are so many things this team wants to do, that the focus is still there."

Senior forward Nichol Graham (#10) netted her first goal of the season on Sunday against Old Dominion.

VOLLEYBALL NU wins CAA opener, undefeated at Solomon Court

VolleyBALL, FROM PAGE 16 Huskies dropped just their second set of their last 12, spanning four games.

In the first game, the teams traded points back and forth. After the Pride tied it at eight, Northeastern scored four unanswered points, capped off by a kill by Briner, who had six kills on six total attacks in the first set. Junior middle hitter Nichole Kurz came up with Sophomore libero Natalia Skiba anchored the teams' defensive efforts with nine of her 17 digs.

The fourth and final set opened with a point by the Pride but Briner anchored an 8-2 Husky run. In the end, Bacon pounded her 17th kill of the day before a Pride error gave the Huskies a 1-0 CAA record in 2012 conference play.

"We were very prepared because it's our first conference match," Kamenova said. "It was really good that we killed [Hofstra] in the first game and we play them again next month." The setters had major contributions as the Huskies opened conference play and will need to continue to do so as the season moves along. "The setters work really hard because not only do they have to think about where the positioning of the ball has to be, but also who to set based on who's on the other side of the net," Bishop said. "They are such huge assets to our team.' The Huskies will continue their eight-game homestand when they take on CAA opponents this weekend with a Friday night game against the University of North Carolina-Wilmington and then a Sunday afternoon game against the College of William & Mary. They will play UNCW at 7 p.m. and William & Mary at 1 p.m.

News Photo/Zack Williamson Setters sophomore Jillian Briner (#1) and junior Ina Kamenova (#9) have combined for 626 assists this season.

the game-winning kill.

"I think we came out a little bit flat in the first eight or 10 points that first set," Nichols said. "Then, we got a little bounce from the service line and started playing with some emotion."

Hofstra came off the bench with something to prove in the second set, scoring first and holding their lead. Junior outside hitter Kelly Bacon smashed six of her 17 attacks in the set, but the Huskies could not overcome the Pride.

"We kind of got a little cocky, I think," Briner said of the team's performance in the second set. "Once you start doing that, you start passing bad, then setting bad, then hitting bad."

Hofstra again opened the scoring in the third set, but the Huskies followed with eight unanswered points. Briner and Kamenova continued to distribute the ball in the third set, combining for 12 assists.

Senior middle hitter and co-captain Nicole Bishop came up with a great block to stuff the Pride.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 2012 HUNTNEWSNU.COM WOMEN'S SOCCER Huskies win streak haulted by UNC

By Trevor Wenners NEWS CORRESPONDENT

The women's soccer teams' first winning streak of the year came to an end with a 4-2 loss to the University of North Carolina-Wilmington Seahawks at Parsons Field on Sunday.

The Huskies were led by senior forward Greta Samuelsdottir's two goals but

| Northeastern | 2 | what | t head |
|--------------|---|------|---------|
| UNCW | 4 | coac | h Trac- |
| | | ey | Leone |

called poor ball handling negated the leading-goal scorer's work.

"The first two goals, we had bad back passes to them," Leone said. "The second one was another back pass we gave them; we had the ball and we gave them the ball in two bad spots.

Samuelsdottir extended her point streak to three games when she netted the first goal of the match at 7:21 off a free kick just outside of the box which was assisted by junior midfielder Hanna Terry.

"It does not matter that you score two goals because when you lose, you lose," Samuelsdottir said. "The biggest lesson is that the game is 90 minutes, it is not 45

The Seahawks evened the game at 16:37 with freshman midfielder Morgan Leyble's header off of senior midfielder Kim Currie's corner kick.

Senior forward Greta Samuelsdottir leads the Huskies with 12 points (five goals, two assists).

"The first one [came off] a corner; our energy was not there, we did not have the mentality we needed to clear it," Leone said. Samuelsdottir responded by scoring her fifth goal of the season at 24:50 from 35 yards out, assisted by junior midfielder Hillary Savoy.

Seahawk junior forward Meg Kisser scored her first goal of the season at 39:18 to tie the game going into halftime.

"At halftime we felt like we had lost the game," Leone said. "We did not recover well from playing such an amazing half but making a couple critical errors that led to goals."

Seven minutes into the second half, Seahawks leading scorer senior forward Stephanie Rose connected for her first of two goals. Her fifth goal of the season at 52:36 break a 2-2 tie. She rang again at 79:25, adding an insurance goal.

"We were definitely the better team today. I do not have any doubts about that," Samuelsdottir said. "Hopefully we can just forget about that last half or learn from it and take the good things out of this and realize that we just got to believe that we can do it."

The Huskies and Seahawks each had 14 total shots, seven of which were on goal for the Huskies. Sophomore goalkeeper Paige Burnett had six saves in the contest, and UNCW senior goalkeeper Caitlin Hunter recorded five saves in the victory.

"We need to be a little more composed [going forward]," Leone said. "We have to continue with our ways that have made us successful in the last couple games which has been keeping the ball really well and we strayed from that in the second half."

The Huskies hit the road after 2-3 homestand, taking on James Madison University in Virginia tonight at 7 p.m. They'll return home Oct. 4 to take on the Drexel University Dragons at 4 p.m.

S SOCCER

Men's soccer, from page 16 win over Sacred Heart University on Sept. 22, 2002.

But head coach Brian Ainscough said the game was much closer than the three-goal margin of victory suggested.

"We were very flattered by the result," Ainscough said, pointing out that the Crusaders' controlled possession for most of the first half. "We had 13 shots and they had nine. Sometimes the result doesn't tell the whole story. Holy Cross were better than the result, and we weren't as good as the result.

Uttaro earned his second point of the night when he assisted on junior midfielder Monty Sanders' goal in the 87th minute. But it was too little too late.

At the College of William & Mary on Sept. 22, the Huskies were the beneficiaries of a late goal.

After playing in a 1-0 hole for nearly 70 minutes, Blum looped a ball into the box which sophomore defenseman Simon Cox headed over Tribe sophomore goalkeeper Bennett Jones to tie the game with three seconds left in regulation.

"It's not really a style of play we want to keep playing, but as a last-ditch effort, we kind of throw it in there," Blum said of his ability to connect with his forwards on long balls from Northeastern's half of the field. "It's not really part of our game plan to play like that, but when our back's against the wall, whatever it takes.

Freshman keeper Dylan Faber made his second consecutive start and allowed a 21st minute goal to sophomore defender Michael Teiman that gave the Tribe an early lead. Blum replaced Faber for the second half and did not allow a goal in 65 minutes of play.

The battle with the Tribe was Northeastern's fourth game in 2012 to go to double-overtime, three of which have come on the road. The Huskies are undefeated (3-0-1) in those games.

Anding said the road results could have a long-term impact as Northeastern looks to make a deeper run in the Colonial Athletic Association (CAA) playoffs in 2012.

"It's hard to get a result on the road," Anding said. "A tie, a win here or there – those are the things that are going to make the difference between CAAs and NCAAs.'

Northeastern hits the road again Saturday when it visits Virginia Commonwealth University in its final non-conference game of the season.

Ainscough said he hopes his team can take the momentum from Tuesday's win and translate it into a positive result at VCU.

'We love to play against VCU. They're a team that plays really good football," Ainscough said. 'If we can get something out of that game, it should lend well to get ready for Wednesday [Oct. 3 at Drexel University]. We want to make sure we can take care of nonconference games so maybe the conference is not life-and-death when we get there."

Jnly 4 Day

When you shop at THE GOODWILL STORES you support Goodwill's job training, career services, and youth programs.

Allston-Brighton Boston Cambridge Hyannis Jamaica Plain Quincy Somerville South Attleboro South Boston Worcester

www.goodwillmass.org

News Photo/Kevin Ahearn

Senior forward Don Anding's three goals Tuesday night brough his season total to five. He heads the Huskies in points at 12 (five goals, two assists).

Under the Lights: Simon Cox By Elizabeth Thomas

Thanks to men's soccer sophomore defender Simon Cox's tying goal, with less than three seconds left in last weekend's game at the College of William & Mary, the Huskies were able to keep afloat to a 1-1 draw in their Colonial Athletic Association opening game.

"We were a bit slow and didn't play like how we wanted but in the second half," Cox said. "We came out and gave it a good go and got more shots and to be honest to get the goal in was just lucky ... A long ball in a box isn't really how we want to play with three seconds to go, but nonetheless it worked."

With this being the starter's first year on the team after transferring from North Carolina State, Cox has been making a direct impact. The London native admits that he feels much more comfortable in a big city.

"Its nice to be back in the city after North Carolina, where everything is so far away," he said. "I haven't seen much of the city due to the season, hopefully after the season I'll be able to look around more." Cox admitted that head coach Brian Ainscough was also a big factor in his decision to attend Northeastern. "Since he's Irish and I am English I understand his ways of coaching and it's one of the main reasons I came," he said.

NEWS STAFF

Cox has been kicking a soccer ball around for as long as he can remember.

"I started when I was 6 and my neighbor took me to my first training session," he said. "I started to get better, signing with my first club at 11 and then looked to America for education and the chance to play somewhere else."

Despite growing up with soccer, Cox's younger brother, Michael, isn't that big of a fan.

"I have a little brother who's 18 and he's more of the brains of the family. He's into law and economics in England and will be going to university over there."

The Huskies have now won their last 10 consecutive games at

Photo courtsey/GoNU.com

Parsons Field, going a perfect 7-0 last season and 3-0 so far in 2012.

"You always feel confident at home and want to put the other team under the pressure and get the win," he said. "When teams come here they feel a lot of pres-sure from us because there is a winning mentality, especially here at home.'

Fall Career Fair

Wednesday, October 3 2 p.m. – 6 p.m.

U.S. CITIZENSHIP REQUIRED

The sports Stockholm Syndrome

Stockholm Syndrome is a commonly known psychological phenomenon in which a captive attaches themselves to their captor in a hostage situation. First noticed in the five-day hostage incident during the Norrmalmstorg robbery in Sweden, the complex is characterized by hostage(s) empathizing, or even defending, their keepers, according to MedicineNet.com.

For the last decade, the New England Patriots have held the AFC East captive. With Bill Belichick's omniscient guidance, Tom Brady's dazzling play and a seemingly unending stream of quality draft selections, the Patriots have managed to retain their position atop their division and the NFL at-large with relative ease. As a passionate New York Jets fan, I should have relished in the Patriots' results in the last two games. Two weeks, two late-game field goal opportunities, and the Pats found themselves on the wrong side of both of them. Entering Week 4, my beloved Jets sit atop the AFC East for the first time in my recent memory, and yet it feels ... unsatisfying. Maybe it's the three-plus years I've spent in Boston attending Northeastern, maybe it's the influ-ence of the countless Pats fans I call close friends, maybe it's the fact that I'm in the Patriots television market and simply can't get away from their games on Sunday, but the Jets/Pats rivalry raging inside me doesn't have the same vigor it used to. I was overjoyed in 2008 when Bernard Pollard lunged at Tom Brady's legs, tearing his ACL. When I look back now, I see a talented player whom I have respect for missing an entire season during the prime of his career. I used to hate Brady, Belichick and the rest of the Super Bowl ring-sporting cast. I was incomprehensibly bothered by Brady's competitive fire, his screaming on the sidelines, the UGG Boot ads and his GQ style. Now, I respect him. Even worse, I love the passion he shows on the field, his no-nonsense, all-business approach and the surgeon-like precision he uses to dissect defenses.

Out of Bounds

In 2009, the Jets beat the Patriots at Giants Stadium. As soon as the clock hit 00:00, I ran down the halls of my freshman dorm screaming in excitement, being sure to taunt every New Englander I saw along the way. Three years later, I just don't see myself doing that again.

What began as outright animosity eventually became begrudging respect, followed finally by my current state of weird appreciation for the Patriots and their way of doing things. Don't get me wrong, the New York Jets are my team. That will never change. Hopefully once the Brady/Belichick era is over the spell will be broken and I can return to hating the Patriots like a normal, pigskin-fearing fan in my position would. For the time being I'll just have to remind myself that their dominance has an expiration date, that I will be free of their shackles someday, and return to the loving embrace of Gang Green. But damn is Tom Brady attractive.

- Dylan Lewis can be reached at sports@HuntNewsNU.com

STANDINGS

| | CAA MEN'S SOCCER | | | | |
|----|------------------|-------|---------|--|--|
| | | CAA | Overall | | |
| 1 | George Mason | 1-0 | 7-1 | | |
| 2 | Drexel | 1-0 | 5-2-1 | | |
| 3 | James Madison | 1-0 | 3-4-1 | | |
| 4 | Towson | 1-0 | 3-4 | | |
| 5 | Northeastern | 0-0-1 | 5-1-1 | | |
| 6 | William & Mary | 0-0-1 | 2-5-2 | | |
| 7 | Delaware | 0-0 | 2-6-1 | | |
| 8 | Old Dominion | 0-1 | 6-1 | | |
| 9 | Hofstra | 0-1 | 6-2-1 | | |
| 10 | UNCW | 0-1 | 3-5-1 | | |
| 11 | Goergia State | 0-1 | 3-5 | | |

| CAA VOLLEYBALL | | | |
|----------------|----------------|-----|---------|
| | | CAA | Overall |
| 1 | Towson | 1-0 | 14-3 |
| 2 | Northeastern | 1-0 | 12-3 |
| 3 | William & Mary | 1-0 | 9-5 |
| 4 | James Madison | 1-0 | 8-7 |
| 5 | George Mason | 1-0 | 3-11 |
| 6 | Hofstra | 0-1 | 12-7 |
| 7 | UNCW | 0-1 | 7-9 |
| 8 | Delaware | 0-1 | 4-11 |
| 9 | Georgia State | 0-1 | 2-12 |
| | | | |

| CAA WOMEN'S SOCCER | | | |
|--------------------|----------------|-------|---------|
| | | CAA | Overall |
| 1 | Hofstra | 2-0 | 6-4 |
| 2 | Delaware | 2-0 | 5-4 |
| 3 | William & Mary | 1-0 | 7-3 |
| 4 | Drexel | 1-0-1 | 7-1-2 |
| 5 | UNCW | 1-1 | 6-4-1 |
| 6 | James Madison | 1-1 | 3-7 |
| 7 | Northeastern | 1-1 | 3-7 |
| 8 | George Mason | 0-1-1 | 4-6-1 |
| 9 | Old Dominion | 0-1 | 2-7 |
| 10 | Georgia State | 0-2 | 3-5-1 |
| 11 | Towson | 0-2 | 0-9-1 |
| | | | |

CAA FIELD HOCKEY CAA Overall Old Dominion 2-0 6-3

Meet and talk with recruiters to discover excellent career opportunities in these fields:

KNOWINGMATTERS

- Computer/Electrical Engineering
- Computer Science
- Cybersecurity
- Information Assurance
- Mathematics
- Foreign Language
- Intelligence Analysis
- Cryptanalysis
- Signals Analysis
- Business Management
- Finance & Accounting
- Paid Internships, Scholarships and Co-op >> Plus other opportunities

WHERE INTELLIGENCE GOES TO WORK®

U.S. citizenship is required. NSA is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All applicants for employment are considered without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, marital status, disability, sexual orientation, or status as a parent.

| 3 William & Mary 1-1 8- | -2 |
|-------------------------|----|
| 4 Northeastern 1-1 7- | ·2 |
| 5 James Madison 1-1 6- | .3 |
| 6 Delaware 0-0 4- | ·7 |
| 7 Towson 0-1 0- | .9 |
| 8 Hofstra 0-2 5- | -5 |

WEEKEND SCHEDULE

Women's Soccer

at James Madison, tonight, 7 p.m.

Men's Soccer

at Virginia Commonwealth University, Saturday, 7 p.m.

Field Hockey

at James Madison, Friday, 7 p.m.

Volleyball

vs. UNC Wilmington at Solomon Court, Friday, 7 p.m.

vs. William & Mary at Solomon Court, Sunday, 1 p.m.

Women's Ice Hockey

vs. Boston Blades (exhibition) at Matthews Arena, Sunday, 2 p.m.